The Colosseum

The Colosseum is an amphitheater in Rome, Italy. It was the largest amphitheater in the Roman Empire when it was built, and is still the largest in the world, holding more than 80,000 people. It was a stage for gladiator fights, sea battles, animal hunts, and other public shows. This picture shows how it looks today, with some of the stone walls broken and missing. Earthquakes and vandalism have partly destroyed it, but it is still visited by tourists every day.
